```
cj_data = get_data()
         import pandas as pd
         transactions = cj_data['transactions'] products = cj_data['products']
         demographics = cj_data['demographics']
         transactions.columns.intersection(demographics.columns)
Out[35]: Index(['household_id'], dtype='object')
In [41]: df1 = transactions.merge(demographics, how='left', on='household_id')
In [43]: df1.columns.intersection(products.columns)
Out[43]: Index(['product_id'], dtype='object')
In [96]: pizza_filter = products['product_type'].str.contains('pizza', case=False, na=False)
         df2 = (products[pizza_filter].merge(df1 , how='inner', on='product_id')
                 .groupby(['marital_status'], as_index=False)
                 .agg({'product_type': 'count', 'sales_value': 'sum'})
         df2 = df2.rename(columns={'product_type': 'pizza_product_purchased'})
         df2
Out[96]:
            marital_status pizza_product_purchased sales_value
          0
                                             2788
                                                      10711.37
                   Married
                 Unmarried
                                             3037
                                                      10917.73
          1
In [94]: import seaborn as sns import matplotlib.pyplot as plt
         sns.barplot(x='marital_status', y='pizza_product_purchased', data=df2)
Out[94]: <Axes: xlabel='marital_status', ylabel='pizza_product_purchased'> 3000
           2500
        uct_purchased 2000
         pizza_prod
           1000
            500
               0
                              Married
                                                             Unmarried
                                           marital_status
In [106... df3 = (products[pizza_filter]
                 .merge(transactions , how='inner', on='product_id')
                 .merge(demographics, how='inner', on='household_id')
         df3.plot.scatter(x='quantity', y='sales_value')
          <Axes: xlabel='quantity', ylabel='sales_value'>
           25
           20
        sales_value
10
             5
            0
                                    10
                                             15
                                                       20
                                                                25
                                                                          30
                           5
                                            quantity
In [112... df4 = df3.set_index('transaction_timestamp')['sales_value'] sale_resample = df4.resample('D').sum() sale_resample.plot(kind='line', figsize=(12, 4))
Out[112... <Axes: xlabel='transaction_timestamp'> 200
         150
         100
           0 -
                                                                                                        Oct
           Jan
2017
                      Feb
                                          Apr
                                                    May Jun
                                                                         Jul
                                                                                   Aug
                                                                                              Sep
                                                                                                                                      Jan
2018
                               Mar
                                                                                                                  Noν
                                                                                                                            Dec
                                                                transaction_timestamp
```

In [35]: from completejourney_py import get_data